The Teberg Fund Process

The Fund uses technical analysis to review the market to decide when and where to allocate the portfolio. This is achieved by looking at sector indices over various time periods and considering overall trends. For invested monies, the Fund primarily invests in index ETF's and mutual funds but can also invest in individual stock positions.

Our Firm

Absolute Capital has been providing turnkey money management programs to our clients since 2002. During that time, we have seen dramatic volatility and shifts in the market. Such conditions are precisely why we founded Absolute Capital – to navigate the dynamic and demanding investment landscape with strategies that are responsive to market conditions. While many things have changed over time, one thing that remains the same is our commitment to provide investors with actively managed strategies positioned for the road ahead. For a detailed discussion of Absolute Capital's funds, please refer to the fund prospectus.

Investors should carefully consider the investment objectives, risks, charges and expenses of the the The Teberg Fund. Important Risk Disclosures

Investing in the Fund carries certain risks. Underlying Funds are subject to investment advisory and other expenses, which will be indirectly paid by the Fund. As a result, the cost of investing in the Fund will be higher than the cost of investing directly in other investment companies and may be higher than other mutual funds that invest directly in securities.

Special risks associated with investments in foreign markets may include less liquidity, greater volatility, less developed or less efficient trading markets, lack of comprehensive company information, political instability and differing auditing and legal standards. Lower-quality bonds, known as "high yield" or "junk" bonds, present greater risk than bonds of higher quality, including an increased risk of default. These securities can be highly speculative. Securities of small and medium capitalization companies may be subject to more abrupt or erratic market movements than those of larger, more established companies or the market averages in general.

The Fund expects to have portfolio turnover rates in excess of 100%. Increased portfolio turnover causes the Fund to incur higher brokerage costs, which may adversely affect the Fund's performance and may produce increased taxable distributions.
